Bywater

Training with Bywater

Welcome to Bywater's professional training for organisations and individuals wishing to improve their information security management and planning for business continuity.

Why are ISO 27001 and ISO 22301 important?

Every organisation today is at risk from ever-evolving attacks on their IT systems, and the chaos that can ensue if service is disrupted.

The aim of ISO 27001 is to help you identify and manage risks in a systematic way throughout the organisation. As a global standard it provides a framework to establish, maintain and continually improve an organisation's information security management systems (ISMS). It also supports compliance with data protection and privacy regulations, building partner and customer trust.

The international standard for business continuity management systems (BCMS), ISO 22301, offers guidance on how to plan, implement and improve processes for keeping organisations working in the face of cyberattacks, natural disasters, and even human error. A well constructed BCMS improves resilience and reduces potential losses.

Information security and business continuity for all sectors

We have welcomed delegates across many sectors to our information security and business continuity training courses, including manufacturing, public sector, tech consultancies, transport, police services, retail and many more.
